What fees will I pay?
Principal fees which will be incurred in client accounts are fees on trades in securities. WBAC shall be entitled to fees payable as securities commissions and compensation earned on trades executed in the account(s) (the "Commissions"). Commissions and other ancillary fees will be charged on such trades and will be disclosed on trade confirmations. In certain circumstances, markups/markdowns will not be disclosed to investors. Client also bears certain charges imposed by third parties in connection with account(s) and investment(s) including but not limited to 12b-1 fees, distribution fees, service charges and fees, sub-accounting fees, management fees, expense risk, and CDSC fees ("Ancillary Fees"). Additionally, certain money market, municipal money market, and government money market funds ("Money Market"), pay WBAC in its capacity as Broker/Dealer. There are a variety of money market funds available through WBAC and higher interest rates are available on some alternative money market funds for which the Client is not invested. Client may contact the Firm for additional information on reasonably available money market fund alternatives and the current interest rates, at any time. Ancillary Fees and Money Market fees create a conflict of interest as there are financial incentives for WBAC to recommend these funds. Client also bears additional fees including but not limited to custodian fees, account servicing fees, statement and confirmation fees, mutual fund purchase/redemption and exchange/conversion fees, account maintenance fees, fees related to performance reporting and variable annuities, and other transactional and product level fees. Client will pay fees and costs regardless of whether Client makes or loses money on investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money made on investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. For additional information, please see Wiley Bros.-Aintree Capital, LLC Regulation Best Interest Investment Services and Fees Summary and contact our office with any questions 615-255-6431. Conversation Starter. There is a conflict of interest as WBAC and Advisor will be compensated regardless of the number of trades that do or do not occur in the account. When charging asset based fees, the more assets there are in a Client's account, the more the Client will pay in fees, and WBAC may therefore have an incentive to encourage the Client to increase the assets in Client's account. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Transaction Fee: when agreed to by Client and Advisor, WBAC will charge a cents/share and/or Transaction Fee in addition to the Annual Advisory Fee. This creates a conflict of interest because WBAC and Advisor have a financial incentive to engage in more transactions in the Client's account. • Wrap Fee: we currently do not have any such accounts. Typically, under such an arrangement, the asset-based fees will include most transaction costs & fees to Advisor and Broker/Dealer/Custodian, and therefore are higher than a typical asset-based advisory fee. Client also bears certain charges imposed by third parties in connection with account(s) and investment(s) including but not limited to 12b-1 fees, distribution fees, service charges and fees, sub-accounting fees, management fees, expense risk, CDSC fees ("Ancillary Fees"). What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?
When we provide you with a recommendation, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they affect the recommendations we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Referral payments: WBAC may receive compensation in commission or commission equivalent for the referral of clients to third party providers • Revenue sharing: WBAC will receive Ancillary Fees and Money Market fees generated from various investments in client account(s). This creates a conflict of interest as there is incentive, by WBAC to recommend these investments. • Principal Cross Transactions: WBAC in transactions involving Client's securities, acts as principal on the other side of the transaction. WBAC makes a profit which is not disclosed on the trade confirmation. The client understands that when WBAC acts as principal in a principal cross transaction it is acting on its own behalf and as a result has a potentially conflicting division of loyalties and responsibilities regarding such a transaction. • Financial Interest: WBAC recommends purchase/sale of securities for which WBAC and/or broker has financial interests. • Payment for Order Flow: Absent written instruction WBAC will direct all securities transactions to Pershing, LLC for which WBAC is compensated. For additional information, please see Regulation Best Interest Investment Services and Fees Summary and contact our office with any questions 615-255-6431. Conversation Starter. How do your financial professionals make money?
Brokers are compensated through Commissions/commission equivalent, profits from markups/markdowns, trails from mutual funds and money market funds. Compensation may be based upon the complexity required to service client's needs (including but not limited to liquidity, market conditions, time spent by registered rep, and executing exchange). Since compensation is received in connection with servicing client accounts, there is a conflict of interest. WBAC mitigates this conflict through disclosure, and enforcement of policies and procedures related to servicing best interests of clients.	Advisors are compensated through fees for assets under management, commissions/commission equivalent, profits from markups/markdowns when disclosed and accepted by clients prior to trade execution, and fees from mutual funds and money market funds.
